

Testimonials

“Over the past year, we’ve watched Richard Beranek Ph.D. and Rohan Thakar grow Brash into one of the leading product development firms across the country, growing their team and clientele at crazy rates. As previous founders, they understand the ups and downs of a startup and not only provide product advice but guidance on how to succeed as a founder. For anyone looking for an organization to help with product development, design or any other product related needs, I could not recommend Brash strongly enough!”

Brett Vokey
CEO - BreatheSuite Inc.

“Working with Brash was a real pleasure. I was most impressed by three things, 1) how quickly they understood what we needed, 2) how quickly they provided some working software on or below budget and 3) how well they were able to simulate the hardware and develop the software without any actual prototype hardware to run it on.”

Vincent Bush
CEO - HINT

“Hardware is hard if you do not have the right people working with your team. Richard is a former high tech hardware entrepreneur and provides a unique experience to the product development process. Richard understands how to be lean and was creative in finding ways to help us get to the next development or financing milestone. Working with Richard is not simply a client-customer relationship but a long-term partnership. Overall, Brash was truly vested in our success and was willing to make sacrifices with us. I would highly recommend Brash to any early-stage start-ups that are looking to partner with a great product development firm.”

Josh Ogden
Founder - AVSS

“The team at Brash helped us develop our best-selling product to date. Beyond the technical requirements of the project, good communication was really the key that brought our product to life. We worked with Brash across 4 countries and in fact never even met in person until after the project was completed. After we completed our main project, we also hired them to build a robot for a marketing video which they also completed on time and on budget.”

Brian Sloan
CEO - VIECI

“From the start of my collaboration with the team at Brash Inc., it was obvious that they had the expertise necessary for success. Their software engineers quickly understood my vision and in a very short period of time were able to create a polished product. The complexity of the software they created for my project is only surpassed by the functionality, simplicity and aesthetic built into the user interface they created. My goal was to create an approachable and user friendly program, and this has been, without a doubt, successfully achieved.”

Alain Gauthier
Founder - OR Prep